NASA WALLOPS RECOGNIZED FOR ENVIRONMENTAL EXCELLENCE

NASA Goddard Space Flight Center's Wallops Flight Facility was recently recognized by the Commonwealth of Virginia for its environmental excellence in the Virginia Environmental Excellence Program (VEEP).

VEEP was established in 2005 to recognize Virginia facilities that have reduced or eliminated their impact on the environment through their environmental management system, pollution prevention program, and record of sustained regulatory compliance. Wallops Flight Facility was recognized for achieving the level of Exemplary Environmental Enterprise.

Wallops Flight Facility is one of only three federal facilities in Virginia to achieve this level of excellence. Wallops was honored for having demonstrated proactive environmental management, compliance with environmental requirements and continuous improvement in its environmental performance.
